A proud Brown Ant

A little brown ant had a very big family.

The ants looked the same, but the little brown ant was just a bit smaller than the rest.

Reading Time

When it gets cold in most places,
ants gather food for the winter.
So all the ants set out fast! The little brown ant was left alone.

Reading Time

“Wait for me,” she shouted. But no one could hear a sound. When the little brown ant met up with the rest, they were on their way back home.

The little brown ant was sad.
“All the food is gone now. How will I eat?” The ant sat down to rest. She saw something on the ground.

Reading Time

The ant got closer. "Great!" she cried loudly. "It's a big, beautiful hunk of sweet cake. How will I get it home from here? I am much too small."

The ant asked the animals she met for help. Each one told her, "No. I will not help." "Well," said the ant, "then I'll have to do it myself!"

Reading Time

Crouching down, she slowly lifted up the cake. Step by step, the ant made it home! The cake would last all winter. The ant had never felt so proud.
