- List and choose your topic.
- Plan the story by drawing out the Beginning, the Middle and the Ending.
- Write down key words for each part.

- Look at your story plan and use your ideas in the story.
- Write the sentences part by part.

One morning in the park, Herman the crab was exercising and had a surprise. His shell popped off and rolled into the ocean. Tasha the turtle said, "Try on other shells." Some shells were too small. They pinched. One shell was too big Herman was getting tired. He saw a shiny shell. He tried it on. It was just right.

Write

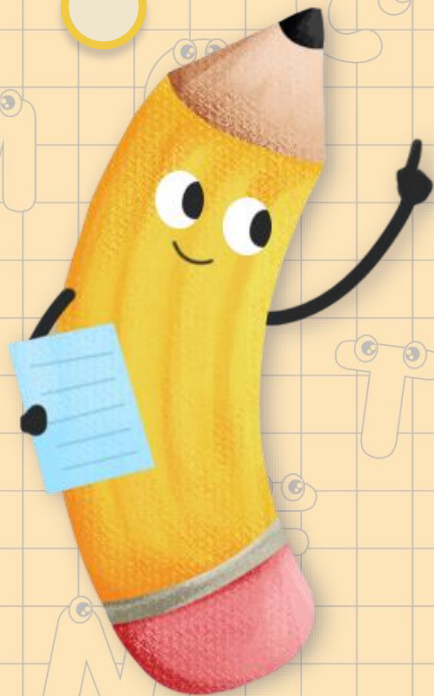

In our last lesson, Alice made a sketch to plan her story and use it to write her first draft. Now she is going to revise, edit and publish it.

One morning in the park, Herman the crab was exercising and had a surprise. His shell popped off and rolled into the ocean. Tasha the turtle said, "Try on other shells." Some shells were too small. They pinched. One shell was too big Herman was getting tired. He saw a shiny shell. He tried it on. it was just right.

Today we'll learn ...

The Writing Process of a Story Writing: Revise & Edit & Publish

Let's Learn

Revise

Let's do the revising!
How do we make
it better?

One morning in the park, Herman the crab was exercising and had a surprise. His shell popped off and rolled into the ocean. Tasha the turtle said, "Try on other shells." Some shells were too small. They pinched. One shell was too big Herman was getting tired. He saw a shiny shell. He tried it on. it was just right.

How about adding some details to make
it better?

Let's Learn

Check all the details I added!

One morning in the park, Herman the crab
was exercising and had a surprise. Oops! His shell popped off and rolled into the ocean. Tasha
the turtle said, "Try on other shells." Some shells were too small. They pinched. One shell was too big Herman was getting tired. Then he saw a shiny shell. He tried it on. it Herman liked his new home!
was just right.

It sounds better!

Edit

It's time to edit!
Are there any mistakes?

One morning in the park, Herman the crab
was excrcizing and had a surprise. <sup>Oops!</sup> His shell
popped off and rolled into the ocean. Tasha
the turtle said, "Try on other shells." Some shells were too small. They pinched. One shell was too big <sup>Then</sup> Herman was getting tired. He saw a shiny shell. He tried it on. it <sup>Herman liked his new home!</sup> was just right.

Let's Learn

I marked out all the mistakes and corrected them!

One morning in the park, Herman the crab
was <sup>exercising</sup> ~~exercizing~~ and had a surprise. <sup>Oops!</sup> His shell
popped off and rolled into the ocean. Tasha
the turtle said, "Try on other shells." Some shells were too small. They pinched. One shell was too big. <sup>Then</sup> Herman was getting tired. He saw a shiny shell. He tried it on. <sup>I</sup> ~~it~~ <sup>Herman liked his new home!</sup>
was just right.

Publish

It's time to publish!
I add a title, indent the first line and make a neat final copy!

1 Herman's New Home
