Beginning

Set up our story.

1. Review your Questions Chart.
2. Name the main character, the problem, and the setting in the first sentence.

Middle

Develop the plot.

1. Review your Story Grid.
2. Show how each character tried to help the main character.
 - write each add-on character in a different paragraph
 - use specific action verbs

Ending

End your story.

1. Think about how the main character feels.
2. Write two sentences:
 - telling the main character's feeling
 - telling what the character said/learned

Review

Where were we last time?

◆ In our last class, Alice wrote the first draft of her add-on story.

◆ She finished the  Write  step.
Now she is going to  Revise .

Beginning

One morning, Rabbit woke up and began digging. He loved to dig, so he dug and dug a deep hole. When he was done, Rabbit had a problem. He couldn't get out.

Middle

Rabbit cried.

Ostrich heard him and looked into the hole. She stretched her long neck and tried to reach Rabbit. her neck was not long enough.

Little Kangaroo came along. She hopped into the hole. "Jump into my pocket, and we will hop out," she said. Rabbit was too heavy. Little Kangaroo jumped out alone.

"Ssssss" someone hissed. It was Python. He said, "I know what to do." He tried himself to a tree to make a long rope. Then Rabbit climbed up.

Ending

Rabbit was excited to be out of the hole. He said, "I'll never dig that deep again."

Today we'll learn...

The Writing Process of an Add-on Story

Let's Do

Help revise this story.

Tell enough details about the main character, the setting, and the problem.

Make the story sound interesting and exciting.

Make it clear how the problem had been solved.

Sun had a problem. She was shining, but no one could see her.

Wind tried to help. He blew and blew. The clouds wouldn't move.

Then Moon came along. He said, "Go to sleep, Sun. When you wake, the clouds will be gone." Moon glowed all night. The clouds wouldn't move.

Finally, Wolf came along and howled at Moon. "Owoooo!" Suddenly, the clouds flew away.

In the morning, the clouds were gone. Sun felt happy because everyone could see her now. Wind, Moon, Wolf went.
