Tell enough details about the main character, the setting, and the problem.

Make the story sound interesting and exciting.

Make it clear how the problem had been solved.

Review

Where were we last time?

- ◆ In our last class, Alice revised her first draft of her add-on story.

- ◆ She finished the  step.

Now she is going to  .

Beginning

One morning <sup>on a farm</sup> Rabbit woke up and began digging. When he was done, Rabbit had a problem. He couldn't get out.

Middle

"Help me!"

Rabbit cried.

Ostrich heard him and looked into the hole. She stretched her long neck and tried to reach Rabbit. her neck was not long enough.

Little Kangaroo came along. She hopped into the hole. "Jump into my pocket, and we will hop out," she said. The rabbit was too heavy. Little Kangaroo jumped out alone.

"Ssssss" someone hissed. It was Python. He said, "I know what to do." He tried himself to a tree to make a long rope. Then Rabbit climbed up <sup>and get out of the hole.</sup>

Ending

Rabbit was excited to be out of the hole. He said, "I'll never dig that deep again."

Today we'll learn...

The Writing Process of an Add-on Story

What do we do in editing?

July 7, 2011

Dear Mom and Dad,

We should remember to eat snacks that are healthy. At school, I tasted broccoli and soy nuts. I even tried yogurt. Guess what? They taste good!

Vegetables, fruits, grains, and dairy foods are good for us. They can help us think, work, and play better. Best of all, they can keep us healthy.

I think we all should eat many more healthy snacks. Please buy some extra ones the next time you go shopping.

Love,
Grace
