I. WARM-UP

Vocabulary

Try to guess the meanings of the underlined words through their contexts.

1. The manager admitted that the proposal was great. However, he has to think it over before approving it.
2. Mr. Chua’s business opponent sent him an invitation.
3. Bill has negotiated with the top businessmen in the world.
4. To be successful, you must have a certain business strategy.
5. Talking with your colleagues causes a delay in the completion of work.

II. DIALOGUE BOX

MEMO

There has been a delay with Ching Company’s order. They said they need more time to think it over, but I heard that there is a new company which is considered to be our opponent. They are negotiating a much lower price with them. They even offered a 5% discount. We need to do everything to keep this account.

I will be announcing the schedule for our meeting with the president. However, before we have the meeting, I want you to plan new strategies on how to keep future clients.

Comprehension Check

1. What is the memo about?
2. According to the memo, what is the cause of the delay?
3. Do you see negotiation as being about:
   a. a fair and equal transaction?
   b. compromising?
   c. making a joint decision in which you get some of what you want and they get some of what they want?
III. LANGUAGE BOX

In negotiations, the first conditional form (if + present + future) is used when we are more certain. The second conditional form (if + past + would infinitive) is more tentative:

ex: If you agree to the new working conditions, we’ll sign the contract now.

There are several ways to express a condition without using an if-clause. A simple conditional with Suppose / Supposing + a verb in the present or past tense:

ex: Suppose they don’t accept, what will you do? (If they don’t accept...)

1st conditional form (if + present + future)
If + you + agree to the new working conditions, we’ll sign the contract now.
2nd conditional form (if + past + would infinitive)
If + you + accepted 5%, we’d be prepared to negotiate the second point.

Answer the question using 1st conditional form or 2nd conditional form. Start your sentences with:

If there are changes in the company, I will...
If there were changes in the company, I would...

How do you manage changes in the company?

IV. SAY IT!  Role-play with your teacher the situation below.

You have been offered a higher position in the company you work for. But, you are dissatisfied with the conditions that apply. How will you negotiate with the manager?

II. DIALOGUE BOX

Bea is an economist who is applying for a new job in an international investment bank.

SAM: Let’s talk about team work. How would you achieve a good working atmosphere in a multinational company?

BEA: The first task is to make sure that everyone knows what is expected from them, in that sense, I think I’m quite a communicative person. I’m highly motivated and goal-oriented. If my team is getting the results then I can be a very enthusiastic leader. I strongly believe that a good leader should be very demanding. But I’m also realistic – the perfect atmosphere probably doesn’t exist.

SAM: Yes, but what about multinational teams?

BEA: I must admit I’m not so experienced when it comes to dealing with nationalities but I don’t think my approach would be all different, not if you’re dealing with professionals. I think good communication would be my main priority.

SAM: Could you describe a recent situation in which you convinced a group to do something?

BEA: Yes, a few months ago I was able to convince a group of rather conservative European bankers that they should be more proactive in their work.
III. LANGUAGE BOX

III. LANGUAGE BOX

When we want to add extra emphasis, especially when we introduce new information or to contrast with a previous statement, we can use the following forms, which are known as “cleft sentences”:

Beginning a sentence when it + to be stresses the words we want to emphasize or contrast:

It’s Peter who is really interested in the idea.

Beginning with What focuses the attention to the final part of the sentence:

What I need is an aspirin.

Using the expression with the thing (that)...

The thing that interests me most was their production system.

We can sometimes replace The thing with All:

All we’re asking for is a firm commitment from you.

IV. SAY IT! You are to organize an annual conference and you need to report some details from your business trip. Use the expressions from the language box.

QUESTIONS

1. How often do you travel for business purposes?

II. DIALOGUE BOX

Dear managers,

I’m sharing some key practices which would help employees to become competent. You should aim to implement this as soon as possible:

- Avoid ignorance and laziness as these are the key obstacles to the spread of best practice. Time is precious.
- Do not be reluctant to change your way of doing things. You can always ask your co-workers for advice.
- Be flexible. You might be transferred to a new department in a short notice.

Best regards,

Carmen Johansen

Use when to express a sequence

_I’ll email you + when + I have some news._

Use when to show that an event happens at the same time as something else.

_Sally phoned + when + I was in a meeting_

GRAMMAR FOCUS

We can use when to express a sequence or to show that an event happens at the same time as something else:

_ex: I’ll email you when I have some news._

While and also show that something happened at the same time as something else:

_ex: I read over the agenda of the meeting while I was waiting._

As Gwen was preparing the agenda, Anton gave her some challenges.

We also use as to show something changes over time in connection with something else:

_ex: Your responsibilities will increase as you move up the company ladder._

IV. SAY IT!

II. DIALOGUE BOX

Report on Frequent Absences among Employees

Executive Summary

As shown in the attendance list, almost 50% of the employees have been absent. This has caught the attention of the Academic Office. Students' complaints sheets are piling up, and have drastically increased compared to the last few quarters. Most of the complaints are about the absent teachers.

Introduction

The purpose of this report is to remind teachers about the institute's attendance policy. If there is the same amount of complaints next quarter, the Academic Department Heads will take disciplinary action. Inevitably they will be forced to revise the policy as follows:

- the instructors involved
- the time with the most absences
- the instructors reasons of absence
- to be implemented revised attendance policy
- recommendation

Findings

Almost 50% of the instructors have been absent on Mondays, in both First and Second class periods. The following points summarize our key findings. To be specific – Monday morning 08:10-9:00 and 09:10-10:00. Secondly, Fridays. Instructors are usually absent in the last period, 04:00-5:00 in the afternoon. Most instructors reasoned out in writing that they were not aware that they have classes at those times. On Fridays, most of the teachers explained that their students didn't show up for almost half an hour, therefore it was suggested they leave.

Conclusions

These incidents have raised many complaints on both the students' and the teachers' behalves. According to the teachers, they were given notice about absence and tardiness ahead of time.

Recommendations / Implementations

Due to this, each teacher will have to confirm their schedules for the following week, in person, at the Academic Office. During last periods, every teacher must stay in their assigned room until 04:45. After the time, if the student is still not present the teacher may leave.
